

Licence

We have decided to use the GNU General Public Licence for our project artifacts. This is a copyleft licence that grants users free access to use, share, and modify all of our project artefacts. We made this app to help walkers choose the best route for them, but we cannot account for everyone's preferences so by using the GNU General Public Licence we can let the users personalise it themselves. For example, the user may want to add a new indicator to their version of the app so that it fits with their walking routes better, this licence will allow them to do that. Users are also free to distribute their modified content, as long as it is clearly marked as modified.
